This document merges the monster material from the B/X Basic and Expert books into one continuous reference chapter. The shared monster-entry rules are stated once, Basic and Expert entries are combined into one alphabetical sequence, and selected illustration plates from the original books are retained where they materially improve the presentation.

Using This Chapter

The monsters are arranged alphabetically for quick reference.

Some monster names are followed by an asterisk (*). This means that special or magical weapons are needed to fight them, and such monsters should be used with caution.

All non-human monsters have infravision unless a description says otherwise. They can detect heat out to 60' in darkness. Hot objects appear bright, warm things appear in shades of gray, cold things appear dark, and large heat sources can interfere with this sense.

Armor Class: Armor Class is given in the same general way as for player characters and is based on both protection and agility.

Hit Dice: Hit Dice show how many d8 are rolled for hit points, including any pluses or minuses. Hit Dice also indicate a monster's rough level, the dungeon level where it is most commonly found, its attack ability, and its experience value. In general, a monster's level is equal to its Hit Dice, ignoring pluses and minuses, though especially dangerous monsters may be treated as a level higher. As a rule of thumb, monsters fit best within about two dungeon levels of their Hit Dice, with fewer appearing above that range and more below it.

An asterisk after Hit Dice matters for experience awards. * means the special-abilities bonus is added once, and  means it is added twice.

Move: Move gives the number of feet a monster may travel in one turn. The number in parentheses is the number of feet it may move in one combat round. If two movement rates are given, the first is ordinary movement and the second is a special mode such as swimming, flying, or climbing.

Attacks: Attacks gives the number and kind of attacks a monster may make in one round.

Damage: Damage gives the matching damage values in the same order as the attacks listed.

Poison: A poisoned hit is often fatal if the victim fails a save versus Poison.

Paralysis: A failed save versus Paralysis leaves the victim helpless but aware, usually for 2-8 turns unless cured. Attacks against a paralyzed target hit automatically.

Energy Drain: Energy drain removes a level of experience or one hit die with no saving throw. The loss cannot normally be cured.

Charm: A charmed victim cannot act freely, cannot attack the charming monster, and will obey simple commands if they can be understood.

Acid: Acid may continue to burn after the initial hit and can destroy armor as well as flesh.

No. Appearing: This gives the suggested number encountered on the dungeon level that matches the monster's Hit Dice or level. Numbers in parentheses give the usual lair or wilderness total, and a 0 means the monster is not normally found in that setting.

Save As: This gives the class and level used for saving throws. Intelligent monsters usually save at full monster level, often as fighters unless the description says otherwise. Unintelligent monsters often save at half level, rounded up.

Morale: Morale is the B/X optional morale score. The DM rolls 2d6; if the roll is higher than the adjusted morale, the monster tries to flee.

Treasure Type: Treasure Type refers to the standard B/X treasure tables. Lair monsters are more likely to have treasure than wandering monsters, and unintelligent animals often have little or none unless circumstance explains it.

Alignment: Alignment shows whether a monster is Lawful, Neutral, or Chaotic. Unintelligent animals are usually Neutral.

When a monster entry includes multiple varieties, the original grouped presentation has been kept rather than split into many near-duplicate entries. This is especially true for dragons, lycanthropes, living statues, giant animals, sharks, whales, and similar related families.

A dryad is a beautiful female tree spirit, who lives in a woodland setting or a dense forest. Each individual dryad always lives in a specific tree and will die in one turn if taken more than 240' away from it. A dryad will also die if her tree dies. If a dryad wishes to be unobserved, she will join with her tree, becoming part of it. Dryads are extremely shy and non-violent, but very suspicious of strangers.

Anyone approaching or following a dryad, not merely standing in the area of the tree, may be attacked by the powerful charm person spell these creatures can cast. The victim must make a saving throw vs. Spells with a penalty of -2 on the roll. A charmed character will approach the tree and be drawn into it. Unless rescued immediately, the victim will never be seen again.

Dryads hide their treasure in hollows under the roots of their trees.

A basilisk is a 10' long, sinuous magical lizard that is non-intelligent. It lives in underground caverns or wild and tangled thickets.

Creatures touched by a basilisk, or meeting its gaze, must make a saving throw vs. Turn to Stone or be petrified (including all the character wears and holds). Surprised characters automatically meet the gaze of a basilisk. Characters in hand-to-hand combat with a basilisk meet its glance each round unless looking away.

Characters looking away to avoid the gaze of a basilisk must fight it with a penalty of -4 on their "to hit" rolls, while the basilisk attacks at + 2. The beast can be safely viewed in a mirror, and characters who fight it while looking into a mirror will only have a -1 penalty on their "to hit" rolls. If the basilisk sees itself in a mirror (a 1d6 roll of 1 or 2), it must make a saving throw or be turned to stone! There must be light close by for mirrors to be used, and using a mirror prevents the effective use of a shield.

A black pudding is a black amorphous blob 5-30 feet in diameter. It is non-intelligent and constantly hungry. It can dissolve wood and corrode metal in one turn, but cannot affect stone. Black puddings can travel on ceilings and walls and can pass through small openings. They can be killed only by fire; other attacks (weapons or spells) only break them up into smaller puddings (a 2 hit dice pudding that does 1-8 points of damage is created per blow). A flaming sword will do normal damage.

Blink Dog

Blink dogs look like Australian wild dogs. They are highly intelligent, travel in packs, and use a limited teleportation ability: they can "blink out" of one spot and immediately appear ("blink in") at another. When attacking, they "blink" close to an enemy, attack, and then reappear 10 to 40 feet away. On any round in which they have the initiative, they can attack without risking a counter-attack by the defender, by "blinking" away. Their instincts prevent blink dogs from "blinking" into solid objects. If seriously threatened, an entire pack will "blink" out and not reappear. Blink dogs always attack displacer beasts, their natural enemies.

Bugbear

Treasure Type	B
Alignment	Chaotic

Bugbears are giant hairy goblins. Despite their size and awkward walk, they move very quietly and attack without warning whenever they can. They surprise on a roll of 1-3 (on 1d6) due to their stealth. When using weapons, they add + 1 to all damage rolls due to their strength.

Caecilia

Stat	Value
Armor Class	6
Hit Dice	6*
Move	60' (20')
Attacks	1 bite
Damage	1-8
No. Appearing	1-3 (1-3)
Save As	Fighter: 3
Morale	9
Treasure Type	B
Alignment	Neutral

These giant gray wormlike creatures are about 30' long. They attack with their cavernous mouths and sharp teeth. An unadjusted "to hit" roll of 19 or 20 means that they have swallowed their prey whole. The victim will take 1-8 points of damage each round after that until either the victim or the caecilia is dead. Any attack from inside a caecilia may only be made with a dagger, and with a penalty of -4 on "to hit" rolls.

Carrion Crawler

Source: Basic

Stat	Value
Armor Class	7
Hit Dice	3+1*
Move	120'(40')
Attacks	8 tentacles
Damage	Paralysis
No. Appearing	1-3(1-3)
Save As	Fighter: 2
Morale	9
Treasure Type	B
Alignment	Neutral

This scavenger is worm-shaped, 9' long and 3' high with many legs. It can move equally well on a floor, wall, or ceiling like a spider. Its mouth is surrounded by 8 tentacles, each 2' long, which can paralyze on a successful hit unless a saving throw vs. Paralysis is made. Once paralyzed, a victim will be eaten (unless the carrion crawler is being attacked). The paralysis can be removed by a cure light wounds spell, but any spell so used will have no other effect.

Without a spell, the paralysis will wear off in 2-8 turns.

Centaur

Stat	Value
Armor Class	5
Hit Dice	4
Move	180' (60')
Attacks	2 hooves / 1 weapon
Damage	1-6 / 1-6 / 1-6 or by weapon
No. Appearing	0 (2-20)
Save As	Fighter: 4
Morale	8
Treasure Type	A
Alignment	Neutral

A centaur is a creature with the head, arms, and upper body of a man joined to the body and legs of a horse. Centaurs prefer to live far from humankind in meadows and forests. Since they are somewhat intelligent, they will arm themselves with weapons such as clubs, lances, or bows.

Centaurs will form into small tribes or families. Their homes will be found in dense thickets or woods reached by twisting and guarded pathways. The females and young will usually stay in the lair. If attacked, females and young will attempt to flee unless escape is impossible, in which case they will fight to the death. The young will fight as 2 hit dice monsters, doing 1-2 / 1-2 / 1-4 damage or by weapon type.

Chimera

Armor Class	4
Hit Dice	9
Move	120' (40')
Flying	180' (60')
Attacks	2 claws / 3 heads + special

No. Appearing	1-2 (1-4)
Save As	Fighter: 9
Morale	9
Treasure Type	F
Alignment	Chaotic

A chimera is a horrid combination of three different creatures. It has three heads, goat, lion, and dragon, the forebody of a lion, the hindquarters of a goat, and the wings of a dragon. The goat's head gores with its horns, the lion's head bites with its fangs, and the dragon's head can bite or breathe fire, a 50' long cone with a 10' wide end, for 3-18 points of damage.

Like a regular dragon, the dragon head will breathe fire 50% of the time or bite 50% of the time. The dragon's head can only breathe 3 times per day. Chimeras usually live in wild hills, but may occasionally be found in dungeons.

Cockatrice

Stat	Value
Armor Class	6
Hit Dice	5

Attacks	1 beak + special
Damage	1-6 + petrification

Save As	Fighter: 5
Morale	7
Treasure Type	D
Alignment	Neutral

This is a small, magical monster with the head, wings, and legs of a rooster and the tail of a serpent. It is able to strike with its beak for 1-6 points of damage. However, its small size and single attack disguises its greatest danger: any character touched by a cockatrice must make a saving throw or be turned to stone.

Cockatrices may be found anywhere.

Cyclops

Stat	Value
Armor Class	5
Hit Dice	13*
Move	90' (30')
Attacks	1
Damage	3-30
No. Appearing	1 (1-4)
Save As	Fighter: 13
Morale	9
Treasure Type	E + 5000 gp
Alignment	Chaotic

A cyclops is a rare type of giant, noted for its great size and the single eye in the center of its forehead. A cyclops is about 20' tall. It has poor depth perception due to its single eye, and strikes with a penalty of -2 on all "to hit" rolls. A cyclops will usually fight with a wooden club. A cyclops can throw rocks up to a distance of 200 feet with a penalty of -2 to hit. These rocks will cause 3-18 points of damage to any creature struck.

Some cyclops, 5%, are able to cast a curse once a week. The DM should decide the exact nature of the curse.

A cyclops usually lives alone, though a small group may sometimes share a large cave. They spend their time raising sheep and grapes. Cyclopes are known for their stupidity, and a clever party can often escape from them by trickery.

Devil Swine

Source: Expert

Stat	Value
Armor Class	3 (9)
Hit Dice	9*
Move	180' (60')
Human	120' (40')
Attacks	1 gore (or blow)
Damage	2-12 (or by weapon)
No. Appearing	1-3 (1-4)
Save As	Fighter: 9
Morale	10
Treasure Type	C
Alignment	Chaotic

Devil swine are lycanthropes, shape-changers. They haunt the fringes of human settlements, especially those near swamps or forests. They are carnivorous and especially fond of human flesh. They can assume the forms of huge hogs or fat human beings, and can change from one form to the other freely at night, but at dawn they must retain their current form until dusk. Devil swine can be harmed only by silver or magical weapons.

Devil swine possess a powerful charm person spell that can be used 3 times each 24 hours. They can use this spell in either human or swine form. A saving throw vs. Spells is allowed, at -2 on the roll. The charmed victim will be unable to use spells or magical devices, and each devil swine may have 0-3 humans under its control. Devil swine prefer to attack from ambush.

Displacer Beast

Source: Expert

Stat	Value
Armor Class	4
Hit Dice	6*
Move	150' (50')
Attacks	2 tentacles
Damage	2-8 / 2-8
No. Appearing	1-4 (1-4)
Save As	Fighter: 6
Morale	8
Treasure Type	D
Alignment	Neutral

A displacer beast looks like a large black panther with six legs and a pair of tentacles growing from its shoulders. It attacks with these tentacles, which have sharp horn-like edges. A displacer beast always appears to be 3' from its actual position, making the creature hard to hit: any creature attacking it must subtract 2 from the "to hit" rolls. The displacer beast also receives a +2 bonus on all saving throws.

They are semi-intelligent. Displacer beasts hate and fear blink dogs, and will always attack them and anyone traveling with them.

Djinni, Lesser*

Source: Expert

Stat	Value
Armor Class	5
Hit Dice	7 + 1
Move	90' (30')
Flying	240' (80')
Attacks	1 + special
Damage	2-16 (fists), or 2-12 (whirlwind)
No. Appearing	1 (0)
Save As	Fighter: 14
Morale	12
Treasure Type	Nil
Alignment	Neutral

The djinn are intelligent, free-willed air elementals. They appear as tall, human-like beings, surrounded with clouds. Djinn are highly magical in nature and save as 14th level fighters. They can only be harmed by magic or magical weapons.

A djinni can perform any of its seven powers three times a day. These powers are: create food and drink, as a 7th level cleric; create metallic objects of temporary duration, varying with hardness, gold for 1 day and iron for one round, to a maximum of 1000 en weight; create soft goods and wooden objects, permanent, to a maximum of 1000 en weight; become invisible; assume gaseous form; or form itself into a whirlwind. In addition, a djinni can create illusions that affect both sight and hearing at will. Such illusions last until touched or magically dispelled; the djinni need not concentrate to maintain them.

Djinn have two forms of attack. A djinni can form itself into a whirlwind, 70' tall, 20' diameter at the top, 10' diameter at base, that moves 120' (40') per turn. The djinni requires 5 rounds to enter or leave whirlwind form. The djinni-whirlwind will do 2-12 points of damage to all in its path and will sweep aside all creatures with fewer than 2 hit dice who do not save vs. Death Ray. When not in whirlwind form, a djinni strikes once per round with its fists for 2-16 points of damage. If a djinni is slain, it returns to its own plane. A djinni can carry 6000 en weight without tiring. Up to 12,000 en weight can be carried for 3 turns walking or 1 turn flying. Afterwards, a djinni must rest for one turn.

Doppelganger

Source: Basic

Stat	Value
Armor Class	5
Hit Dice	4'
Move	90' (30')
Attacks	1
Damage	1-12
No. Appearing	1-6 (1-6)
Save As	Fighter: 10
Morale	10
Treasure Type	E
Alignment	Chaotic

These man-sized, shape-changing creatures are intelligent and evil.

A doppelganger is able to shape itself into the exact form of any human-like creature (up to 7' tall) it sees. Once in the form of the person it is imitating, it will always attack that person. Its favorite trick is to kill the original person in some way without the party knowing. Then, in the role of that individual, it will attack the others by surprise, often when the party is already engaged in combat.

Sleep and charm spells do not affect doppelgangers and they save as Fighter: 10 due to their highly magical nature. When killed, a doppelganger will turn back into its original form.

Dragons are a very old race of huge winged lizards. They like to live in isolated, out-of-the-way places where few humans are found. Though the color of their scaly hide makes dragons look different, they all have several traits in common: they are hatched from eggs, are meat-eaters, have Breath Weapons, love treasure, and will do everything possible to save their own lives, including surrender.

Dragons are proud of their long history, and because of this they tend to think less of the younger races. Chaotic dragons might capture humans, but will usually kill and eat them immediately. Neutral dragons might either attack or ignore a party completely. Lawful dragons, however, may actually help a party if the characters are truly worthy of the honor. When playing a dragon, the DM should remember that even the hungriest dragon will pause and listen to flattery, provided no one is attacking it and it understands the speaker.

BREATH WEAPONS DAMAGE: All dragons have a special attack with their Breath Weapon in addition to their claw and bite attacks. Any dragon can use its Breath Weapon up to 3 times each day. A dragon's first attack is always with its Breath Weapon. The number of points of damage any Breath Weapon does is equal to the dragon's remaining number of hit points. Any damage done to a dragon will reduce the damage it can do with its Breath Weapon.

After the first Breath attack, a dragon may choose to attack with claws and bite. To determine this randomly, roll 1d6. A result of 1-3 means that the dragon will use its claw and bite attacks; a result of 4-6 means that the dragon will breathe again.

SHAPE OF BREATH: A dragon's Breath Weapon appears as one of three different shapes: cone-shaped, a straight line, or a cloud of gas.

A cone-shaped Breath begins at the dragon's mouth, where it is 2' wide, and spreads out until it is 30' wide at its furthest end. For example, the area of effect of a white dragon's Breath is a cone 80' long and 30' wide at its far end.

A line-shaped Breath starts in the dragon's mouth and stretches out toward its victim in a straight line, even downwards. Even at its source, a line-shaped Breath is 5' wide.

A cloud-shaped Breath billows forth from the dragon's mouth to form a 50'x40'x20' tall cloud around the dragon's targets directly in front of it.

SAVING THROWS: Anyone caught within the area of effect of a dragon's Breath Weapon may make a saving throw. A successful saving throw means that the victim takes only 1/2 damage from the Breath. Dragons are never affected by the normal or smaller versions of their own Breath Weapons, and automatically make their saving throws against any attack form that is the same as their Breath Weapon. For example, a red dragon will take no damage from burning oil, and will always take only 1/2 damage from a fire-type magic spell such as a fire ball.

TALKING: Dragons are intelligent, and some dragons can speak Dragon and Common. The percentage listed under Chance of Talking is the chance that a dragon will be able to talk. Talking dragons are also able to use Magic-user/Elf spells. The number of spells and their levels are given above under Spells by Level. For example, 3 / 3 / - would mean that the dragon can cast 3 first-level spells and 3 second-level spells, but no third-level spells. Dragon spells are usually selected randomly.

SLEEPING DRAGONS: The percentage chance given under Chance of Being Asleep applies whenever a party encounters a dragon on the ground; flying dragons are never asleep. Any result greater than the percentage means that the dragon is not asleep, though it may be pretending to be. If a dragon is asleep, it may be attacked with a bonus of +2 on attack rolls for one round, during which it will wake. Combat proceeds normally from the second round on.

SUBDUING DRAGONS: Whenever characters encounter a dragon, they may choose to try to subdue it rather than kill it. To subdue a dragon, all the attacks must be with the flat of the sword; missile weapons and spells may not be used. Attacks and damage are determined normally when trying to subdue the dragon. The dragon will fight normally until it reaches 0 or fewer hit points, at which time it will surrender. A dragon may be subdued because it realizes that its attackers could have killed it if they had been striking to kill.

A subdued dragon will attempt to escape or turn on its captor if given a reasonable chance to do so through the party's actions. For example, a dragon left unguarded at night, or ordered to guard a position alone, would consider these reasonable chances. A subdued dragon must be sold. The price is up to the DM, but should never exceed 1,000 gp per hit point. The dragon may be forced to serve the characters who subdued it. If a subdued dragon is ever ordered to perform a task that is apparently suicidal, it will attempt to escape and/or kill its captors.

AGE: The statistics given are for an average-sized dragon of its type. Younger dragons are smaller and have acquired less treasure; older dragons are larger and have acquired more. Dragons generally range in size from 3 hit dice smaller to 3 hit dice larger than average. For example, red dragons could be found having 7 to 13 hit dice, depending on their age.

TREASURE: Younger dragons may have collected as little as 1/2 the normal listed treasure; older dragons may have as much as double the listed amount. Dragon treasure is only found in the dragon's lair. These lairs are rarely left unguarded, and are well-hidden to prevent easy discovery.

GOLD DRAGONS: Gold dragons always talk and use spells. They can also change their shape, and often appear in the form of a human or animal. Gold dragons may breathe either fire, like a red dragon, or chlorine gas, like a green dragon, though they still have a total of 3 Breath Weapon attacks per day, not 6. The type of Breath attack should be chosen by the DM to fit the situation.

Dragons are extremely powerful and should be used with caution when encountered by low-level player characters. It is recommended that until characters reach the fourth level and higher, only the youngest and smallest dragons be used by the DM.

Dragon turtles appear to be some unusual mixture of a dragon and a gigantic turtle. They have the head, limbs and tail of a great dragon and the hard shell of a turtle. These creatures live in the depths of great oceans and seas, seldom surfacing or approaching land. Dragon turtles are so large that sailors have mistakenly anchored on ones floating on the surface, thinking the hard shell to be a small island.

Besides its powerful claws and bite, the dragon turtle is also able to use a breath weapon. It can breathe a 30' wide cloud of steam to a distance of 90'. This breath weapon will do damage in the same manner as a dragon's, inflicting hit points of damage equal to the current hit points of the dragon turtle.

Dragon turtles live in great caverns on the bottom of the deepest oceans, where they keep the treasures of sunken ships. On occasion they will rise under ships, attempting to overturn them and devour the occupants.

Note: Dragon turtles are extremely powerful creatures that should not be used unless the player characters are of very high level.

Efreets are free-willed fire elementals. They usually appear as clouds of smoke that solidify into giant demonic-faced men surrounded by flame. The air around them is always hot and smoky, they are highly magical in nature, and they can only be hit with magic weapons.

Efreets can create objects, create illusions, and turn invisible like djinn. They may also create a wall of fire up to 3 times per day. An efreeti can transform itself into a pillar of flame for up to 3 rounds, setting flammable items within 5' alight and doing an extra 1-8 points of damage to creatures it strikes while in that form.

Efreets may fly and carry up to 10,000 lb weight while flying. They can be summoned by high-level magic-users who know the special spells required, but once summoned they must be carefully controlled.

Elementals can be brought forth only from a large amount of their element, open air, bare earth or rock, large fire, or a large pond. After being summoned they must be totally controlled at all times by the person who summoned them. Control requires complete concentration. If the summoner moves over half speed, takes damage in combat, or does anything besides paying attention to the elemental, the elemental will turn and attempt to attack its summoner. It will also attack any creature in the path between it and the one who summoned it. Once control is lost, it can never be regained. An elemental vanishes when dispelled, when the elemental is slain, or when the summoner orders the elemental to return from whence it came while it is still under control. Elementals can be hit only by magic or magic weapons.

Staff elementals, the weakest, are summoned by a magic-user with a special staff. Device elementals are summoned with the use of a special miscellaneous magic item. Conjured elementals are summoned by the use of the 5th level magic-user or elf spell.

Earth elementals appear as huge man-like figures 1' tall for each hit die they have. Earth elementals cannot cross a water barrier wider than their height. Earth elementals do an extra 1-8 points of damage against opponents on the ground.

Goblins are a small incredibly ugly human-like race. Their skin is a pale earthy color, such as chalky tan or livid gray. Their eyes are red, and glow when there is little light, somewhat like rat's eyes.

Goblins live underground and have well-developed infravision (heat-sensing sight) to 90'. In full daylight they fight with a penalty of -1 on their "to hit" rolls. Goblins hate dwarves and will attack them on sight. There is a 20% chance that when goblins are encountered, 1 of every 4 will be riding a dire wolf.

In the goblin lair lives a goblin king with 15 hit points who fights as a 3 hit dice monster and gains + 1 on damage rolls. The goblin king has a bodyguard of 2-12 goblins who fight as 2 hit dice monsters and have 2-12 hit points each. The king and his bodyguard may fight in full daylight without a penalty. The goblin morale will be 9 rather than 7 as long as their king is with them and still alive.

A golem is a powerful monster, created and animated by a high-level magic-user or cleric. They can be made of almost any material, but the ones listed are typical. The DM should feel free to create other golems with any special powers desired.

Normally golems can only be hit by magic weapons. Golems are also immune to sleep, charm, and hold spells, as well as all forms of gases. Creating a golem is costly, time consuming, and beyond the power of player characters in the D&D Expert rules.

- Wood golems are crude manlike figures about 3' tall, hacked from wood. They move stiffly and have a penalty of -1 on initiative rolls. They burn easily, saving at -2 and suffering one extra point of damage per die from fire-based attacks.
- Bone golems are 6' tall creatures made from the bones of dead men bound together into a manlike form. They wield weapons from skeletal arms fastened to their bodies at various points. Either four one-handed weapons or two pole arms may be used by a bone golem, and it will attack up to two enemies per round. Bone golems are immune to fire, cold, and electrical attacks.

- Amber golems resemble giant lions or tigers. They are faultless trackers and can detect invisible creatures within 60'.
- Bronze golems look somewhat like fire giants. Their skin is bronze and their blood is liquid fire. Any creature hit by a bronze golem takes 1-10 more points of damage from the great heat inside it. Anyone scoring damage on a bronze golem with an edged weapon must save vs. Death Ray or take 2-12 points of damage from the fiery blood spurting out of the wound. Bronze golems are not affected by fire-based attacks.

All lycanthropes will turn back into human form when killed. Some animals, such as horses, do not like the smell of lycanthropes and will react with fear.

ANIMAL FORM: In animal form, a lycanthrope may only be harmed by magic weapons, silvered weapons, or magic spells. The lycanthrope cannot speak normal languages, though it can speak with normal animals of its were-type.

HUMAN FORM: In human form, a lycanthrope often looks somewhat like its were-form. In this form, it may be attacked normally, and may speak any known languages.

LYCANTHROPY: Lycanthropy is a disease. Any human character who is severely hurt by were-creatures, losing more than half of his or her hit points in battle with them, will become a lycanthrope of the same type in 2-24 days. The victim will begin to show signs of the disease after only half that time. The disease will kill non-humans instead of turning them into were-creatures. It may only be cured by a high-level cleric of 11th level or greater. Any character who becomes a full were-creature becomes an NPC, to be run by the DM only.

- Wererats: Wererats are different from most lycanthropes. They are intelligent, can speak Common in either form, and may use any weapon. A wererat usually prefers to use a man-sized rat form, but may become a full-sized human. Wererats are sneaky and often set ambushes, surprising on a roll of 1-4 on 1d6. They summon giant rats to help them in battle. Only a wererat's bite causes lycanthropy.
- Werewolves: These creatures are semi-intelligent and usually hunt in packs. Any group of 5 or more will have a leader with 30 hit points, attacks as a 5 hit dice monster, and gains +2 on damage rolls. Werewolves summon normal wolves to form large packs with them.
- Wereboars: Wereboars are semi-intelligent and have bad tempers. In human form they often seem to be berserkers, and may act the same way in battle, gaining +2 on attack rolls and fighting to the death. Wereboars summon normal boars to help them in battle.
- Weretigers: These relatives of the Great Cats often act like them, being very curious but becoming dangerous when threatened. They are good swimmers and quiet trackers, surprising on a roll of 1-4 on 1d6. They may summon any type of Great Cat in the area, preferring tigers.

- Werebears: Werebears are very intelligent, even in animal form. A werebear usually prefers to live alone or with bears. It might be friendly if peacefully approached. In combat, werebears may hug for 2-16 points of damage, in addition to normal damage, if both paws hit the same target in one combat round. A werebear may summon any type of bear in the area.

A manticore is a horrid monster having a man's face, the body of a lion, leathery bat wings, and a tail ridged with spikes. The manticore has 24 spikes and can shoot 6 each round even when flying. The tail spikes have a 180' range and each do 1-6 points of damage. The creature will regrow 2 spikes per day.

A medusa looks like a human female with live snakes growing from her head instead of hair. The sight of a medusa will turn a creature to stone unless the victim saves vs. Turn to Stone. The bite of the snakes is poisonous (save vs. Poison or die in one turn) and when they hit they will do a total of 1-6 (1d6) points of damage. The group of snakes may only attack once per round. A medusa will often wear a robe with a hood for disguise in order to trick its victims into looking at it. A medusa can be looked at without harm by looking at its reflection in a mirror. If a medusa sees its own reflection, it must save vs. Turn to Stone or it will petrify itself!

Anyone who tries to attack a medusa without looking at it must subtract 4 from all "to hit" rolls, and the medusa may attack with a bonus of + 2 on its "to hit" rolls. A medusa also gains + 2 on saves vs. Spells due to her magical nature.

The number appearing represents a small hunting party, although mermen will often form underwater villages of 100 to 300 creatures. For every 10 mermen encountered there will be a leader with 2 hit dice. For every 50 there will be one leader with 4 hit dice. Mermen leaders save as fighters with the same amount of hit dice.

Orcs are ugly human-like creatures who look like a combination of animal and man. Orcs are nocturnal (usually sleeping in the day and active at night or in the dark), and prefer to live underground.

When fighting in daylight, they must subtract 1 from their "to hit" rolls. They have bad tempers and do not like other living things; they will often kill something for their own amusement. They are afraid of anything which looks larger and stronger than they are, but may be forced to fight by their leaders.

Orc leaders gain their positions by fighting and defeating (or killing) the others. One member of any group of orcs will be a leader with 8 hit points who gains a bonus of + 1 on damage rolls. If this "leader" is killed, the morale of the group becomes 6 instead of 8.

Orcs may often be hired at low cost as soldiers, and are often used for armies by Chaotic leaders (both humans and monsters). The orcs are satisfied by being allowed to kill and burn as much as they want. Orcs prefer swords, spears, axes, and clubs for weapons.

They will not use mechanical weapons (such as catapults), as only their leaders understand how to operate them.

There are many different tribes of orcs. Members of different tribes are not usually friendly with each other, and may start fighting unless their leaders are present. An orc lair has only one tribe. Each tribe will have as many female orcs as males, and 2 children ("whelps") for each 2 adults. The leader of an orc tribe is a chieftain who has 15 hit points, attacks as a 4 hit dice monster, and gains + 2 on damage rolls. For every 20 orcs in a tribe, there may be an ogre with them (a 1 in 6 chance). (If the D&D EXPERT rules are used, there is a 1 in 10 chance of a troll living in the lair as well.)

All creatures within 20' will take 1-8 points of damage per round from the intense heat the salamander generates. Flame salamanders are immune to all fire-based attacks. These creatures are intelligent and prefer to live near, or in, volcanoes or in very hot, dry lands.

A frost salamander looks like a giant lizard with 6 legs. Its scales are white or blue-white in color. When it fights, it rears up and strikes with the front four legs as well as fangs. All creatures within 20' will take an additional 1-8 points of damage each round from the extreme cold the monster radiates. Frost salamanders are immune to all cold-based attacks. Water termites vary from about 1' to 5' in length, the largest being found in ocean waters. All are shaped similar to normal termites except for an elastic body sack which can intake and expel water.

When the body sack is completely expanded, the water termite looks like a large balloon with a small insect-like head attached at the front of the body. These termites jet about underwater like squids. When frightened above water, the water termite will release an irritating spray at one target. Any creature or character hit by this spray must save vs. Poison or be stunned for 1 turn. If frightened underwater, it will produce a black ink to obscure the vision of its attacker. These defense mechanisms can be used once per turn. If backed into a corner, the water termite will attempt to bite its attacker.

The real terror of these creatures is the possible destruction they can cause to boats and ships. Water termites will cling to passing vessels and move about the bottom to find a good place to begin eating away at the wood. Once attached, each termite will do 1-3 points of hull damage to the ship or boat and then will drop off, having eaten its fill. Check for sinking (see page) after the water termites have begun to damage the vessel. Once a water termite damages a boat or ship, there is a 50% chance each round that someone will notice water leaking into the vessel.

A troglodyte is an intelligent human-like reptile with a short tail, long legs, and a spiny comb on its head and arms. Troglodytes walk upright and use their hands as well as humans. They hate most other creatures, and will try to kill anyone they meet.

They have a chameleon-like ability to change colors and use it to hide by rock walls, surprising on a roll of 1-4 on 1d6. They secrete an oil which produces a stench that will nauseate humans and demi-humans unless the victims save vs. Poison. Nauseated characters have a -2 penalty on their attack rolls while in hand-to-hand combat with the troglodytes.

Thin, rubbery, and loathsome, trolls stand nearly 8' tall. They are intelligent and prefer humanoid creatures over all other foods. Trolls live in caves, dungeons, wastelands, and in ruined dwellings of the humanoids they have slain and eaten.

Trolls are strong and rend their opponents with talons and sharp teeth. A troll has the power of regeneration, the ability to heal and grow back together. A troll will begin to heal 3 rounds after it has taken damage. A troll's wounds will heal themselves at a rate of 3 hit points per round, and even severed limbs will crawl back to the body and rejoin. The troll cannot regenerate damage from fire or acid. In game turns, this means that unless totally consumed by fire or acid, a troll will eventually regenerate completely. If reduced to 0 hit points by other than fire or acid damage, the troll will heal enough to fight again in 2-12 rounds. The morale in parentheses applies only when the troll is attacked by fire or acid.

Undead

See Skeleton, Zombie, Ghoul, Wight, Wraith, Mummy, Spectre, and Vampire.

Undead are evil creatures created through dark magic. They are unaffected by things that affect living creatures, such as poison, and are not affected by spells which influence the mind, such as sleep and charm person. They do not make noise.

Vampires are the most feared of the undead, feeding on the blood of the living in order to survive. Vampires haunt ruins, tombs, crypts, and other places deserted by man. They are unaffected by sleep, charm, and hold spells. Vampires can only be hit with magic weapons.

In human form, a vampire's touch will drain 2 life energy levels from the victim. A character slain by a vampire will return from death as a vampire in 3 days.

A vampire may also attempt to charm any who gaze into its eyes. The victim must save vs. Spells to avoid the charm, with a -2 penalty on the roll. A charmed victim will be totally under the vampire's control, but cannot use spells or magic.

A vampire in any form can regenerate 3 hit points per round, as soon as it is damaged. If a vampire is reduced to 0 hit points, it will not regenerate, but will become gaseous and flee to its coffin.

In human form the vampire can summon 10-100 rats, 5-20 giant rats, 10-100 bats, 3-18 giant bats, or 3-18 wolves, 2-8 dire wolves, if these are in the area.

Weaknesses of vampires: Vampires will not come within 10' of any strongly presented holy symbol, although they may move to attack the person holding the symbol from another direction. A strong odor of garlic repels them, save vs. Poison or cannot attack that round. Vampires cast no reflection and avoid mirrors.

A vampire may take the form of a human, a dire wolf, a giant bat, or a gaseous cloud at will. This transformation requires 1 round. In dire wolf or giant bat form, the vampire will move, attack, and do damage according to the statistics for those creatures. The vampire's armor class, hit dice, morale, and saving throws remain unchanged. In gaseous form, a vampire can fly at the listed speed and has immunity to all weapon attacks. A vampire cannot attack while in gaseous form.

Vampires cannot cross running water, either on foot or flying, except at bridges or while in their coffins. During the day, a vampire usually rests in its coffin, and failure to do so results in the loss of 2-12 hit points per day. These hit points will not be regenerated until the vampire has rested in its coffin for a full day.

Destroying vampires: A vampire can be destroyed by driving a wooden stake through its heart or by immersion in running water for 1 turn. If a vampire is exposed to direct sunlight, the creature must make a saving throw vs. Death Ray each round or disintegrate. A continual light spell will not disintegrate a vampire, but will partially blind it, making its attacks suffer a -4 penalty to hit. If all of the vampire's coffins are blessed or destroyed, the vampire will weaken, taking damage as above, and will die when its hit points are reduced to 0. A vampire will always have several well-hidden coffins available.

A giant weasel is 8'-9' long and covered with richly colored fur of white, gold, or brown. These quick, vicious predators hunt singly or in groups. Once they bite, they hold on and suck blood, doing 2-8 points of damage each round until their prey dies or the weasel is killed.

Giant weasels have infravision to 30' and can track by scent. They prefer wounded prey and lair in underground tunnels, where treasure is often found on the bodies of creatures they have dragged back to eat.

Example: a 3rd level fighter struck by a wight becomes a 2nd level fighter, keeping only enough experience points to be at the midpoint of 2nd level, and losing 1 hit die of hit points.

Bats are nocturnal (sleeping during the day, moving about at night) flying mammals. They often live in caves or abandoned buildings.

They don't use their eyes to see but find their way about by echolocation (a type of radar using hearing and echoes to locate objects).

Since they don't use their eyes, spells or abilities which depend on sight to affect their victims will not work on bats. A silence 15' radius spell will effectively blind a bat.

Normal Bats: Normal bats will not attack men but may confuse them by flying around their heads. There must be at least ten bats to confuse one character. Characters who are confused will have a penalty of -2 on their "to hit" rolls and saving throws and cannot cast spells. Normal bats must check morale each round unless they are controlled or summoned.

Giant Bats: Giant Bats are carnivorous (meat eaters) and may attack a party if extremely hungry. More dangerous, however, are giant vampire bats. Five percent (5%) of all giant bat encounters will be groups of giant vampire bats. The bite of a giant vampire bat does no extra damage but its victim must save vs. Paralysis or fall unconscious for 1-10 rounds. This will allow the vampire bat to feed without being disturbed, draining 1-4 points of blood per round. Any victim who dies from having his or her blood drained by a giant vampire bat must save vs. Spells or become an undead creature 24 hours after death. (If D&D EXPERT rules are used this may be a vampire.)

Bears are well known to all adventurers. If a bear (of any type) hits with both paws on the same victim in one round of combat, the bear has hugged its victim and will cause 2-16 (2d8) additional points of damage in the same round as the attack.

- Black bear: Black bears have black fur and stand about 6' tall.

They are omnivorous (will eat almost anything), but prefer roots and berries. A black bear will not usually attack unless it is cornered and cannot escape. Adult black bears will fight to the death to protect their young. They have been known to raid camps, seeking food. They are especially fond of such treats as fresh fish and sweets.

- Grizzly bear: Grizzly bears have silver-tipped brown or reddish brown fur, and stand about 9' tall. They are fond of meat and are much more likely to attack than black bears. Grizzlies are found in most climates, but are most common in mountains and forests.
- Polar bear: Polar bears have white fur and stand about 11' tall.

They live in cold regions. They usually eat fish, but are as likely to attack as grizzly bears. These huge bears are good swimmers, and their wide feet allow them to run across snow without sinking.

- Cave bear: A cave bear is a type of giant grizzly bear which lives in caves and "lost world" areas. It stands about 15' tall and is the most ferocious of all the bears. Though omnivorous, a cave bear prefers meat, and enjoys human flesh. Cave bears have bad eyesight but a good sense of smell. If hungry, they will follow a track of blood until they have eaten.

The Great Cats are normally cautious and will avoid fights unless forced by extreme hunger or when trapped with no escape route.

Though they may be found in a relaxed or even playful mood, they are subject to rapid and violent changes of temper. They often develop a fondness for one type of food, and will go out of their way to hunt that type of prey. Sometimes this taste in food runs to humans or human-like creatures. The Great Cats will rarely go too deeply into caves, preferring to remain within fleeing distance of the wilderness outside. Despite their shyness they are very inquisitive, and may follow a party just out of curiosity. They will always chase a fleeing prey.

Mountain Lion: This tawny-furred species lives mostly in mountainous regions but also inhabits forests and deserts. They will wander further into dungeons than any other species of Great Cat.

Panther: Panthers are found on plains, forests, and open shrub lands. They are extremely quick and can outrun most prey over short distances.

Lion: Lions generally live in warm climates, and thrive in savannah and brush lands near deserts. They usually hunt in groups known as prides.

Tiger: Tigers are the largest of the commonly found Great Cats.

They prefer cooler climates and wooded lands where their striped bodies offer some degree of camouflage, useful when hunting.

They will surprise their prey on a roll of 1-4 (on 1d6) when in woods.

Sabre-Tooth Tiger: Sabre-tooth tigers are the largest and most ferocious of the Great Cats. They have oversized fangs, from which they get their name. Fortunately, sabre-tooth tigers are mostly extinct, except in "lost world" areas.

Giant piranha are 5' in length with green and black scales. They attack anything that disturbs the water near them. Up to 8 giant piranha can attack the same target. Once blood is drawn they go into a feeding frenzy and will not check morale. Piranha inhabit warm fresh waters and prefer rivers to lakes.

Spiny rockfish are found in shallow salt water and are very difficult to distinguish from normal boulders. There is a 70% chance that one will be mistaken for a boulder or lump of coral. A rockfish is normally harmless, but will viciously attack anyone who disturbs it. Its body is covered with spines, and it may lash 4 of them at any character. These spines do 1-4 points of damage each and are deadly poisonous, save vs. Poison or die. Mistaking a rockfish for a rock or lump of coral and grasping it will result in 4 automatic hits, each requiring a save vs. Poison in addition to the normal damage taken.

Giant catfish are chalky white fish about 15' long. They have two long feelers that sprout from each side of the mouth, and lurk in the cool muck of river and lake bottoms attacking swimmers or things moving on the bottom.

Giant sturgeon are almost 30' long and are covered with thick armorlike scales. Sturgeons are vicious fighters. On a roll of 18 or better they swallow their prey whole.

Any character swallowed takes 2-12 points of damage per round and must make a saving throw vs. Death Ray or be paralyzed. If the character saves, he or she may try to hack a way out at a penalty of -4; the inside of a sturgeon has a base AC of 7.

Riding horses are smaller than draft or war horses but can carry a rider farther. A riding horse is noted for its ability to exist anywhere there is grass to feed on. Any wild horse can become a riding horse if tamed. The amount of weight the horse can carry and still move at normal speed is 3000 cn. The maximum weight that can be carried is 6000 cn at half movement.

War horses are bred for warlike temperament and strength. They cannot be ridden long distances at high speed, but are powerful in a short charge. A war horse can carry 4000 cn at full speed and 8000 cn at half speed. When charging, a rider employing a lance will do double damage if a hit is successful, although the horse may not fight at the same time. After the first charging round, both rider and horse can fight normally.

Draft horses are large horses bred for sturdiness and endurance. They are used primarily for plowing, pulling wagons, and as pack animals. A draft horse can carry a normal load of 4500 cn and a maximum load, movement reduced by 1/2, of 9000 cn. A draft horse will not fight; if attacked, it will attempt to flee.

Gecko: A gecko is a 5' long lizard colored pale blue with orange-brown spots. Geckos are carnivorous and nocturnal, sleeping during the day and active at night or in darkness. Geckos hunt by climbing steep walls or trees with their specially adapted feet, then dropping on their prey to attack.

Draco: A draco is a 6' long lizard with wide flaps of skin between its legs which it can spread to glide through the air like a flying squirrel. Dracos are generally found above ground, though they sometimes creep into caves to escape very cold or very hot weather. Dracos are carnivorous and have been known to attack humans.

Horned Chameleon: A horned chameleon is a 7' long lizard which can change color to blend into its surroundings. It surprises on a roll of 1-5 on 1d6. A horned chameleon can shoot out its sticky tongue up to 5' long. A successful hit means that the victim is pulled to the horned chameleon's mouth and automatically bitten for 2d4 points of damage. The horned chameleon can also attack with its horn for 1d6, and may use its tail to knock other attackers down on a successful hit, doing no damage but preventing the victim from attacking that round.

Tuatara: A tuatara is a 8' long lizard that looks like a cross between an iguana and a toad. It has pebble-colored olive skin with white spikes along its back. It is carnivorous and sometimes attacks humans. A tuatara has a membrane over its eyes which, when lowered, is sensitive to changes in temperature, allowing it to see in darkness with 90' infravision.

Giant octopi lurk in the waters near fishing villages and other coastal areas in tropical or temperate climates.

In combat, a giant octopus will squeeze with its tentacles and stab or bite any creature dragged to its mouth with its fearsome beak.

Once a tentacle hits in combat, it will constrict and automatically do 1-3 points of damage each round. Each tentacle that hits also reduces its victim's chance to hit by 1 (a man with all of an octopus's tentacles wrapped around him would have a penalty of -8 on his "to hit" rolls). A character may try to sever a tentacle and will succeed when any single hit with an edged weapon does 6 or more points of damage.

If a combat is going against it, a giant octopus will flee, jetting away at triple speed and trailing a large, black cloud of ink (40' radius).

Rats will eat almost anything and some rats carry diseases. Anyone bitten by a rat has a 1 in 20 chance of being infected, and that chance should be checked each time a rat successfully hits. The victim may still avoid the disease by making a saving throw vs. Poison. If the save is failed, roll 1d4. On a 1 the victim dies in 1-6 days; otherwise the victim is sick in bed and unable to adventure for one month. The disease may be cured magically.

Rats usually avoid humans and will not attack unless summoned, by a wererat for example, or while defending their lair. Rats are good swimmers and may attack without penalty while in water. They are afraid of fire, and will run from it unless forced to fight by their leader, the creature summoning them.

Normal Rats: Normal rats may be from 6 inches to 2 feet long and have gray or brown fur. They attack in packs of 5 to 10. If there are more than 10 rats they will attack several creatures as packs of 10 or less. A pack will only attack one creature at a time, but may bite for 1-6 points of damage, plus the normal chance of disease checked once per pack attack. Rats will climb all over the creature they are attacking and the victim must save vs. Death or be knocked down by them and unable to fight until regaining its feet.

Giant Rats: Giant rats are 3 feet long or more, and have gray or black fur. They are often found in the dark corners of dungeon rooms and in areas where undead monsters lurk.

Bull sharks are 8' long and brown in color. Bull sharks will ram their prey first to stun it, and then attack the helpless prey the next round.

Mako sharks are 15' long and blue-gray or tan in color. Mako sharks are extremely unpredictable, ignoring swimmers one moment and then, for no apparent reason, attacking.

Giant shrews look like brown-furred rats with long snouts. They can burrow, climb, or jump (up to 5'). They are insectivorous and hunt insects, their main source of food. The eyes of giant shrews are so weak that the creatures are almost blind. They are not affected by light or the lack of it. Like bats, they use very high squeaks to "see" areas and things, and can listen to the echoes so closely that they may "see" things up to 60' away underground as well as a creature with normal sight. A silence 15' radius spell will "blind" a giant shrew. If it cannot hear, it will be confused, and then has an Armor Class of 8 and a penalty of -4 on "to hit" rolls.

Giant shrews do not like large open areas, and remain underground most of the time.

Giant shrews often choose one area to hunt in, and will fight to defend "their" area from other animals (including humans). They are very ferocious and will attack anything. Giant shrews are very quick and will always have initiative on their first attack; in addition they will gain + 1 on their initiative roll for their second attack.

Their attack is so ferocious (attacking the head and shoulders of the defender) that when they attack any creature of 3 hit dice (3rd level) or less, the victim must save vs. Death or run away in fear.

Snakes are found almost everywhere except for very hot or very cold places. Most snakes do not usually attack unless surprised or threatened. Many (but not all) snakes have poisonous bites.

Spitting Cobra: A spitting cobra is a 3' long grayish-white snake which can squirt a stream of venom up to a distance of 6 feet. It aims for its victim's eyes. If the spit hits, the victim must save vs.

Poison or be blinded. (This blindness can normally only be removed by a cure blindness spell from the D&D EXPERT rules, but the DM may wish to invent other ways — such as eating a shrieker.) As with most small poisonous snakes, a spitting cobra will not attack human-sized or larger opponents unless startled or threatened. It can either spit or bite in one round, but not both. It will usually spit. The damage given (1-3 points) only applies to the bite; in this case, the victim must save vs. Poison or die in 1- 10 (1d10) turns.

Pit Viper: A pit viper is a 5' long greenish-gray poisonous snake with small pits in its head. These pits act as heat sensors, with a range of 60'. The combination of pits and infravision makes it very hard to fight a pit viper; it is so quick that it always gains the initiative (no roll needed). Any victim bitten by a pit viper must save vs.

Poison or die.

Sea Snake: Sea snakes are snakes adapted for living in the sea.

All are poisonous. They average 6' long (for every 3 hit dice) in size, but can be much larger if the DM desires. They must come to the surface of the water to breathe once an hour. Their bite is little more than a pinprick, and will go unnoticed 50% of the time. The victim must save vs. Poison, and the poison is slow-acting; its full effects take 3-6 (1d4 + 2) turns to be felt if the saving throw is failed. (By the time this is felt, there is a 25% chance that not even a neutralize poison spell — see D&D EXPERT rules — can save the victim.) Unlike other snakes, sea snakes will attack humans for food.

Giant Rattlesnake: A giant rattlesnake is a 10' long snake with brown and white scales set in a diamond pattern. On its tail is a dried, scaly rattle, which it often rattles to warn off intruders or attackers who are too large to eat. Giant rattlesnakes are meat-eaters and their bite is poisonous (save vs. Poison or die in 1-6 turns.) They are very fast and may attack a second time at the end of every round.

Rock Python: A rock python is a 20' long giant snake with brown and yellow scales set in a spiral pattern. Its first attack is a bite. If the bite is successful, a rock python will coil around the victim and constrict in the same round. This squeezing does 2d4 points of damage per round, and begins automatically once the bite hits.

A giant squid dwells only in the deep sea, rising to the surface only to hunt. Giant squids often, 75%, attempt to snatch seamen from the decks of passing ships and pull them to their lair below to be devoured.

The lesser tentacles do constriction damage after they hit. They can be severed with a single blow that does 6 or more points, while the greater tentacles can be severed with a blow that causes 10 or more points of damage.

If its morale fails, the squid can flee at triple speed and will leave great clouds of ink, 30' radius, twice per day maximum, to confuse pursuers. A large giant squid can even be double or triple normal size.

Creatures of halfling size or smaller will be swallowed whole if the killer whale scores a 20 on its "to hit" roll. Those swallowed take 1-6 points of damage per round and will drown in 10 rounds unless freed.

Narwhal. The narwhal is 15' long, grey to white in color, and has an 8' long spiral horn on its head (like that of a unicorn). It is an intelligent, magical creature, very independent and secretive. It is rumored that their horns vibrate in the presence of evil. Their horns are worth from 1,000 to 6,000 gold pieces each (1d6 x 1000) for their ivory. Narwhals roam arctic waters.

Sperm whale. This huge whale can grow to be 60' long. It preys on the most feared denizens of the deep (such as the giant squid).

Man-sized or smaller creatures will be swallowed on a die roll that is 4 or more than the score needed to hit, taking 3-18 points of damage per round. Sperm whales will sometimes (10% chance) attack ships, attempting to ram. Should the sperm whale succeed, it will do 6-36 points of damage to the ship.

Insect swarms are a special type of monster. Swarms are not single creatures, but are whole communities of tiny creatures acting together. A swarm may be attracted to light, or a strange smell, or may be defending their lair. A swarm can be considered to be 10'x30' but may be larger or smaller. Some types of creatures which swarm are: ants, spiders and centipedes (crawlers), bees and wasps (flyers), and beetles and locusts (both crawlers and flyers).

If a character is within a swarm he or she is automatically hit by the.

creatures and will take 2 points of damage each round. If the character has no armor the damage will be doubled. If the character is warding the insects off (explained hereafter) or runs out of the swarm the damage will be halved. It takes 3 rounds for a character who has escaped a swarm to swat all the remaining insects.

Characters may ward off the insects by swinging a weapon or similar object around. If the object is a torch the swarm will take 1-4 points of damage. Weapons will do no damage to an insect swarm.

Swarms are affected by a sleep spell (which will affect the whole swarm), smoke (which will drive them away), and fire or extreme cold (which will damage them). The DM may choose to have other things affect swarms if he or she wishes.

If a swarm is angry (has taken damage) it will pursue characters as best as it can. A swarm may be escaped by running out of its line of sight or diving under water. If a character dives under water he or she will take damage for one more round and then all the insects on him or her will be dead.

- Crab Spider: Crab spiders are 5' long giant spiders. They are meat-eaters and attack their victims by clinging to walls or ceilings and dropping onto them. They have chameleon-like powers and can change their color to blend into their surroundings, surprising on a roll of 1-4 (on 1d6). After the first attack, a crab spider can be seen and attacked normally. Any victim bitten by a crab spider must save vs. Poison or die in 1d4 turns. However, the poison is weak, and the victim may add + 2 to the saving throw roll.
- Black Widow Spider: Black widow spiders are 6' long and colored black with a red "hourglass" mark on their abdomens. They tend to stay close to their webbed lairs. They are carnivorous and have been known to attack humans. Their webs should be treated as the magic-user's spell web, with respect to the chances of breaking free (once entrapped). The webs may also be burned away. Any victim of the bite of a black widow spider must save vs. Poison or die in 1 turn.
- Tarantella: A tarantella is a huge hairy magical spider which looks like a 7' long tarantula. Its bite does not kill; instead, it causes the victim (if a saving throw vs. Poison is failed) to have painful spasms which resemble a frantic thance. This thance has a magical effect on onlookers, and they may be affected. Anyone watching must save vs. Spells or start to thance in the same way. Dancing victims have a penalty of -4 on their "to hit" rolls, and attackers gain + 4 "to hit" the victim. The effects of the bite last for 2-12 turns. However, thancers will drop from exhaustion in 5 turns, and they will then be helpless against attacks. Those caught while watching will thance as long as the original victim. (In the D&D EXPERT rules, there are magical means to cure the poison, and a dispel magic spell will stop the thance.)

Neanderthals, also known as cavemen, are a demi-human species related to humans. They have squat bodies with large bones and powerful muscles. Their faces have apelike features, including large brows above the eyes. Neanderthals live in family groups in caves and caverns.

Neanderthals usually attack with thrown spears and use stone axes, clubs, or stone hammers in hand-to-hand combat. They choose their leaders from a similar race that is much larger than the average Neanderthal. These leaders have 6 hit dice and are 10' tall. There will be 10-40 Neanderthals in the lair with 2 leaders, one male and one female. Neanderthals often hunt cave bears and keep white apes as pets. They are friendly toward dwarves and gnomes, but hate goblins and kobolds. They will attack ogres on sight. They are shy and will avoid humans, but are not usually hostile unless they are attacked.

The result is the percentage chance for that leader to own a magical item from any one particular subtable. Roll separately for each type (subtable) of magic treasure. Check all the subtables except the Scroll subtable and the Wand/Rod/Staff subtable.

Gnomes are a human-like race related to dwarves. They are smaller than dwarves, and have long noses and full beards.

Gnomes have well developed infravision (heat-sensing sight), and can "see" heat to 90' in the dark. They usually live in burrows in the lowlands. Gnomes are excellent metalsmiths and miners. They love gold and gems and have been known to make bad decisions just to obtain them. They love machinery of all kinds and like to use crossbows as missile weapons and war hammers in hand-to-hand combat. Gnomes like most dwarves, but war with goblins and kobolds who steal their precious gold. They will usually attack kobolds on sight.

For every 20 gnomes, one will be a leader with 11 hit points who fights as a 2 hit dice monster. In the gnome lair lives a clan chieftain and his 1-6 bodyguards. The clan chieftain has 18 hit points, attacks as a 4 hit dice monster, and gains a bonus of + 1 on damage rolls. The bodyguards will have 10-13 (1d4 + 9) hit points and attack as 3 hit dice. As long as the clan chieftain or leader is alive, all gnomes within sight of him have a morale of 10 rather than 8.

Most groups of men will be led by additional higher-level leaders with better armor, hit points, saving throws, and possibly magic items. Men also usually have large camps, and the treasure will usually be at the camp.

Brigands are loosely organized outlaws and renegade mercenaries who live by raiding towns and robbing caravans and travelers. For every 20 brigands there will be an additional 2nd level fighter who acts as their leader. For every 40 brigands there will be an additional 4th level fighter acting as commander of the entire group.

Half the brigands will have leather armor, shield, short bow, and sword. The rest will be mounted on riding horses, wear chain mail and shield, and carry swords. The leaders will wear plate mail, carry swords and lances, and ride barded war horses. Brigands will often band together to make fortified camps of 50-300 men. A camp will always be led by a 9th level fighter, with an additional 5th level fighter for every 50 brigands. There is also a 50% chance that a magic-user of 9th to 11th level will be in the brigand camp, and a 30% chance for a cleric of 8th level.

Buccaneers are found on seas, rivers, great lakes, and occasionally oceans. They live by raiding coastal towns and capturing ships to sell the booty elsewhere. Pirates are seagoing men who plunder other vessels, raid coastal towns, and engage in illegal slave trades. They are noted for evil acts and cruelty toward prisoners, and will also freely attack each other if there is a chance for profit. The number of buccaneers or pirates that appear depends on the type and number of ships they are sailing.

Buccaneers and pirates are organized as follows. Leather armor and sword: buccaneers 60%, pirates 50%. Leather armor, sword, and crossbow: buccaneers 30%, pirates 35%. Chain mail and sword: buccaneers 10%, pirates 15%; buccaneers of this type also carry crossbows. For every 30 buccaneers there will be a 4th level fighter. For every ship, there will be a 7th level fighter as captain, and there will be a 9th level fighter as commander of the fleet. There is a 30% chance that a 10th or 11th level magic-user and a 25% chance that an 8th level cleric will be with the fleet.

For every 30 pirates, they will be led by a 4th level fighter. For every 50 pirates or ship, there will be a 5th level fighter. For every 100 pirates or fleet, there will be an 8th level fighter as leader. For every fleet of 300 or more pirates, there will be an 11th level fighter, the pirate lord, as commander of the fleet, and a 75% chance for a 9th or 10th level magic-user. Buccaneers and pirates may carry their treasure with them or have maps showing where it is buried. The treasure given is the total for the entire buccaneer pack or pirate fleet and may be divided as the DM desires. In addition, pirates have a 25% chance of having 1-3 prisoners with them, awaiting ransom. Often, well-defended coastal towns will serve as havens for pirates and buccaneers. These are lawless and dangerous places, full of many possible adventures.

Dervishes often form into camps or tribes of up to 300 men, led by a 10th level cleric. Such a camp will be of tents, 75%, or a wooden or brick stockade, 25%. These camps will contain women, children, livestock, and the treasure of the dervishes.

Dervishes are noted for their fanatic belief in their religion and their intolerance of other views. On rare occasions, they will wage a holy war, in which they will attempt to capture or kill all who have different beliefs. Captives will be given an opportunity to convert; if they refuse, they may be killed or enslaved. Lawful characters may be invited to join the crusade, and those who refuse will be viewed with great suspicion unless a good reason can be provided as to why they should not participate.

Merchants are traders who travel in caravans from town to town, selling and buying various goods such as wines, silks, jewels, and precious metals. Those in the caravan usually ride horses, but they are likely to travel by camel in desert and barren lands and by mule in the mountains. All merchants wear chain mail and carry a sword and dagger.

Typical caravan organization is 5 wagons with 10 merchants, 20 1st level fighters, 2 2nd or 3rd level fighters, 1 5th level fighter, and 1-12 extra animals. At 10 wagons, 20 merchants, 40 1st level fighters, 4 2nd or 3rd level fighters, 1 5th level fighter, and 1-12 extra animals. At 15 wagons, 30 merchants, 60 1st level fighters, 6 2nd or 3rd level fighters, 1 5th level fighter, and 1-12 extra animals. At 20 wagons, 40 merchants, 80 1st level fighters, 8 2nd or 3rd level fighters, 1 5th level fighter, and 1-12 extra animals. All fighters have Armor Class 4 and carry swords, daggers, and crossbows. The extra animals may be horses, mules, or even camels, at the DM's choice. If a caravan has fewer than 20 wagons, the treasure should be reduced accordingly.

Nomads are groups of wandering tribesmen who may be peaceful or warlike and may have any alignment. Small bands encountered hunting or foraging in the wilderness will usually be part of a larger tribe. All treasure will be at the main camp.

"Noble" is a general term for the lord of a castle and any of his or her relatives. In the D&D BASIC rules, a noble will always be a 3rd level fighter. However, the DM may choose to make a noble any class and level. The DM may make up the noble's title or use traditional ones; a few sample titles are Baron or Baroness, Count or Countess, Duke or Duchess, Emir, Khan, Knight, Margrave, and Sheikh.

A little research will uncover many more traditional titles. A noble will always be accompanied by a squire, a 2nd level fighter. A noble might also be accompanied by as many as 10 retainers or hirelings, usually 1st level fighters. For details on encounters with nobles in their castles, see the D&D EXPERT rules.

A normal human is a human who does not seek dangerous adventure. A normal human does not have a class. Normal humans have their own saving throws and "to hit" numbers. They have from 1 to 4 hit points (depending on their age, health, and profession). EXAMPLE: An adult blacksmith would have 4 hp, but a young child or sickly beggar would have 1 hp.

Most humans are "normal" humans, though people with certain professions (such as merchant, soldier, lord, scout, and so forth) help in some adventures. As soon as a human gets experience points through an adventure, that person must choose a character class. Some type of normal humans are: peasants, children, housewives, workers, artists, villagers, townspeople, slaves, fishermen, and scholars.

An NPC party is any group of non-player characters. They may be of any class and level. Each NPC may be Lawful, Neutral, or Chaotic, and the group may be mixed with respect to alignment and class. All rules for player characters apply to NPCs. An NPC party may be created in great detail before a game; the Basic rules point to the procedure in Creating an NPC Party.

A high-level NPC party may be a mixed group of adventurers of any class or alignment. A cleric party is led by a 7th to 12th level cleric, usually with lesser clerics and a few fighters. A fighter party is led by a 7th to 10th level fighter with retainers of similar alignment.

A magic-user party is led by a 7th to 10th level magic-user, often with apprentices and hired fighters. Any magic items found in such a party's treasure should be assumed to be in active use by the NPCs.

Traders are first level fighters who make their living trading goods. They are similar to merchants, but much braver and much better fighters. They usually carry swords and hand axes. They wear furs, treating them as leather armor, and carry shields.

When encountered in the wilderness, they will be leading 1-4 pack mules carrying trade goods. The choice of exactly which trade goods is left to the DM; typical ones are spices, furs, or carved decorative items.
