Bats are nocturnal (sleeping during the day, moving about at night) flying mammals. They often live in caves or abandoned buildings. They don't use their eyes to see but find their way about by echolocation (a type of radar using hearing and echos to locate objects). Since they don't use their eyes, spells or abilities which depend on sight to affect their victims will not work on bats. A silence 15' radius spell will effectively blind a bat.

Normal Bats: Normal bats will not attack men but may confuse them by flying around their heads. There must be at least ten bats to confuse one character. Characters who are confused will have a penalty of -2 on their "to hit" rolls and saving throws and cannot cast spells. Normal bats must check morale each round unless they are controlled or summoned.

Giant Bats: Giant Bats are carnivorous (meat eaters) and may attack a party if extremely hungry. More dangerous, however, are giant vampire bats. Five percent (5%) of all giant bat encounters will be groups of giant vampire bats. The bite of a giant vampire bat does no extra damage but its victim must save vs. Paralysis or fall unconscious for 1-10 rounds. This will allow the vampire bat to feed without being disturbed, draining 1-4 points of blood per round. Any victim who dies from having his or her blood drained by a giant vampire bat must save vs. Spells or become an undead creature 24 hours after death. (If D&D EXPERT rules are used this may be a vampire.)

Bears are well known to all adventurers. If a bear (of any type) hits with both paws on the same victim in one round of combat, the bear has hugged its victim and will cause 2-16 (2d8) additional points of damage in the same round as the attack.

Black bear: Black bears have black fur and stand about 6' tall. They are omnivorous (will eat almost anything), but prefer roots and berries. A black bear will not usually attack unless it is cornered and cannot escape. Adult black bears will fight to the death to protect their young. They have been known to raid camps, seeking food. They are especially fond of such treats as fresh fish and sweets.

Grizzly bear: Grizzly bears have silver-tipped brown or reddish brown fur, and stand about 9' tall. They are fond of meat and are much more likely to attack than black bears. Grizzlies are found in most climates, but are most common in mountains and forests.

Polar bear: Polar bears have white fur and stand about 11' tall. They live in cold regions. They usually eat fish, but are as likely to attack as grizzly bears. These huge bears are good swimmers, and their wide feet allow them to run across snow without sinking.

Cave bear: A cave bear is a type of giant grizzly bear which lives in caves and "lost world" areas. It stands about 15' tall and is the most ferocious of all the bears. Though omnivorous, a cave bear prefers meat, and enjoys human flesh. Cave bears have bad eyesight but a good sense of smell. If hungry, they will follow a track of blood until they have eaten.

Fire Beetle: Fire beetles are 2½' long creatures often found below ground. They are nocturnal, but may be active underground at any time. A fire beetle has two glowing glands above its eyes and one near the back of its abdomen. These glands give off light in a 10' radius, and will continue to glow for 1-6 days after they are removed.

Oil Beetle: Oil beetles are 3' long giant beetles that sometimes burrow underground. When attacked, they will squirt an oily fluid at one of their attackers (a "to hit" roll is needed; the range is 5'). If the oil hits it will raise painful blisters, causing the victim to fight with a penalty of -2 on his or her "to hit" rolls until a cure light wounds spell is used or until 24 hours have passed. If the spell is used to cure blisters, it will not also cure points of damage. Oil beetles can also attack with their mandibles (horned jaws).

Tiger Beetle: Tiger beetles are 4' long giant beetles with a striped carapace (a shell-like covering) which looks like a tiger's skin. They are carnivorous (meat-eaters) and usually prey on robber flies. They have been known to attack and eat humans, crushing them with their powerful mandibles.
