A golem is a powerful monster, created and animated by a high-level magic-user or cleric. They can be made of almost any material, but the ones listed are typical. The DM should feel free to create his own, with any special powers desired.

Normally golems can only be hit by magic weapons. Golems are also immune to sleep, charm, and hold spells, as well as all forms of gases. Creating a golem is costly, time consuming, and beyond the power of player characters in the D&D Expert rules.

Wood golem. These monsters are crude manlike figures about 3' tall, rudely hacked from wood. They move stiffly and have a penalty of -1 on their initiative rolls. They burn easily, saving at -2 and suffering one extra point of damage per die from fire-based attacks.

Bone golem. These are 6' tall creatures made from the bones of dead men bound together into a manlike form. They wield weapons from skeletal arms that are fastened to their bodies at various points. Either four one-handed weapons or two pole arms may be used by a bone golem, and it will attack up to two enemies per round. Bone golems are immune to fire, cold, and electrical attacks.

Amber golem. These resemble giant lions or tigers. They are faultless trackers and can detect invisible creatures within 60'.

Bronze golem. These creations look somewhat like fire giants. Their skin is bronze and their blood is liquid fire. Any creature hit by a bronze golem will take 1-10 more points of damage from the great heat inside it. Anyone scoring damage on a bronze golem with an edged weapon must save vs. Death Ray or take 2-12 (2d6) points of damage from the fiery "blood" spurting out of the wound. Bronze golems are not affected by fire-based attacks.

A gorgon is a magical bull-like monster covered with large iron scales. It gores opponents with its great horns and will do double damage if it hits when charging. A gorgon also breathes clouds of vapor that will petrify any opponents who fail their saving throw vs. Turn to Stone. A gorgon's vapor cloud is 60' long by 10' wide. They are impervious to their own breath weapon. Gorgons are usually found in foothills or grasslands.

A griffon is a large monster with the head, wings, and front claws of an eagle and the body and hindquarters of a lion. It is a voracious predator. Its favorite prey is horses. When within 120' of horses a griffon must pass a morale check or attack immediately.

Wild griffons will attack any who approach their nests. If they are captured young, they can be tamed to become fierce, loyal mounts (training is left to the DM's discretion). Tamed griffons are still likely to attack horses, however, and must check morale as above.

Hawks are hunting birds that glide on the updrafts of the wind, watching the ground for prey. If a hawk surprises its victim, it will do double damage on its first attack.

Normal hawks. These will not attack human-sized or larger creatures unless they appear unable to defend themselves (wounded, bound, etc.).

Giant hawks. These birds are the size of a very large dog or small pony. Giant hawks are very strong and will attack human-sized creatures if hungry. They can carry off halfling-sized prey.

Both types of hawks may be trained as pets or guards by an animal trainer (see p. X21).

Hellhound

Armor Class:	4	No. Appearing:	2-8 (2-8)
Hit Dice:	3-7*	Save As:	Variable
Move:	120' (40')	Morale:	9
Attacks:	bite or breath	Treasure Type:	C
Damage:	1-6 or special	Alignment:	Chaotic

A hellhound appears as reddish-brown hound the size of a large wolfhound or small pony, and is impervious to normal fire. They are often found near volcanos, deep in dungeons, or with another fire-loving creature (such as a fire giant). Hellhounds are cunning and highly intelligent. They save as a fighter level equal to their hit dice.

In melee, a hellhound will attack one person, biting (3-6 on 1d6) or breathing fire (1 or 2 on 1d6) each round. Its breath does 1d6 points of damage for each hit die the hellhound has (3d6 to 7d6).
